

THE ROYAL HOSPITAL CHELSEA

The Royal Hospital Chelsea was established over 300 years ago, during the reign of King Charles II, to provide a home for soldiers, "broken by age and war."

The Royal Hospital's historic buildings such as the Great Hall and the Long Wards have been meticulously restored and continue to serve as a living monument to the nations gratitude to the veterans who have served their country.

Our guided tour will be led by a Chelsea Pensioner and we will learn about the history, beauty and stories of the Royal Hospital Chelsea and will gain an insider's view on what life is like as part of this unique community.
